

High Street Survey

Your mission, should you choose to undertake it, is to find out what people think about the area of Pontypool. You are like a super spy, questioning the suspect to find out what they think, and know about Pontypool. You need to think how your questions might lead onto other questions. Work with a partner to come up with some questions that will help you understand what people really think about Pontypool.

Here is an example:

Now see if you and your partner can write your own questions and flow charts! Remember, the aim is to get information about what they think and feel about Pontypool as a place!